New to Gemmotherapy
but not sure where to begin?

Rest easy, dear one. This is the place to start.

All healing begins with your nervous system.

Finding a solution to resolve the dis-ease and discomfort can be all-consuming. I get it. I cannot tell you the number of clients I have seen and heard from who have tried all the things to no avail and then they find their way to Gemmotherapy. What is it that calls them in? Whether conventional or natural, it is the approach to healing that matters. In our Western culture, we are accustomed to reductive medicine, and it simply isn't working. Isn't it time to take a step back and see the larger picture? Whether your symptoms are in your digestive or respiratory system, all healing begins with your nervous system. The nervous system is command central. To initiate effective healing responses, you need effective communication with all of your organ systems. If this is new for you, please peruse either (or both!) of the resources below before you go any further. They're a helpful introduction to what comes next.

Grab your headphones and tune in to learn about the foundations of healing.

Deepen your relationship.

If you've done all of the above, then you may be interested to learn even more. If so, my podcast series are great to expand your knowledge of Gemmotherapy and extend what you've learned to support your loved ones-human babes and fur babes alike!Here are two more podcast series I think you might like...
