Acute Care

You can thank RN Megan Ethridge for this series. When she joined my intern program, she began building the case for me to put out simple, accessible information for parents. When Megan mentioned the idea of capturing the messages in podcasts, I thought she was crazy. But she didn't give up, and for that, I am so grateful we can now share with you exactly what she envisioned. Discover here not only what to do for a range of acute symptoms but also why they happen.
