Expert advice from Gemmotherapy Practitioners

Book a session with one of our advanced
Gemmotherapy interns

Are you a new client?

First of all, welcome!

I am so glad that you're here and ready to take that next step on your path to restoring immunity and healing naturally. Having the support of someone to guide you as you begin any new endeavor is enormously helpful. As my own practice has grown, I've consistently looked for ways to offer more support to more people. That led me to develop an internship program where I am able to share my teachings with dedicated students, who then are able to grow their individual practices so that we can all serve more people.

So with that, I am so incredibly proud of these four women and have such admiration for their commitment to using Gemmotherapy to its greatest potential for restoring immunity in children and adults.

Each of these interns have completed my Foundations of Gemmotherapy 1 and 2, all of the Advanced Gemmotherapy topics, and will complete Gemmo Study June, 2020 in addition to 4 Gemmo Moms Series to include the following topics: self-awareness, acute care, pregnancy and fertility, and emotional immunity.

Not only are they dedicated to their own learning, but they have offered tremendous support to other students and one another.

Each of these women brings her own unique ingredients to what has become a proven system for addressing acute and chronic symptoms.

I am honored to introduce them to you and announce that they each are accepting new clients! To book a session with them, you may reach out to them individually via the contact information provided.

Megan Ethridge

Hey y'all! My name is Megan Ethridge. I'm a wife, mom to a delightful 4-year-old son, and a registered nurse.

I've been a nurse for 14 years and after the birth of our son began studying natural medicine/therapies to find true healing for him. I'm passionate about helping and teaching others (especially moms) to discover and activate their own healing, using Gemmotherapy as the foundation.

Today I lead Gemmo Mom groups in the Lake Charles, Louisiana area and offer consultations in person and online.

Please contact me for a consultation or to join my next Gemmo Mom seminar.

Lena Kozlovets

Hello! I am a Gemmo Mom and the mom of 5 wonderful children. I live in Kyiv, Ukraine, and I am the pioneer of Gemmotherapy for my country.

I am so in love with how Gemmotherapy changed my life and the life of my family. My family suffered from recurring staph infections for many years, and I tried different methods and treatments. Even homeopathy, which I have used now for 17 years, didn't help.

I knew intuitively that something was missing and was sure there might be a way out. Thanks to my perseverance (and probably chance) I found Gemmotherapy and began to study with Lauren Hubele. My family is now healthy, and I am sharing all I have learned with other mothers.

Today, I make my own gemmos, organize seminars, and lead Gemmo Mom groups to support mothers to heal their children. If you are a Russian or Ukrainian-speaking mom who is searching for a Gemmotherapist, or if you want to learn more about Gemmotherapy, please contact me.

Kara Strubberg

I love to help women navigate a conscious transition into motherhood through fertility, pregnancy, the birthing process, and postpartum. I especially enjoy the opportunity to empower mamas with the tools they need to take the driver's seat in their health and their families' health.

I came across Lauren during our last pregnancy. I found Gemmotherapy to be a gentle and effective healing modality through the pregnancy and beyond to aid in improving digestion, reducing anxiety and feeling more grounded, amongst other things. I love the opportunity to share these tools with other women going through this beautiful time of transition.

I live in Austin, TX, with my husband and two young boys and offer online consultations to women preparing for, during, and after pregnancy.

Meet the Gemmo Pioneers

Pioneers are the first to explore new areas and that precisely describes the role these brave women play.

All are seasoned practitioners in their own field of expertise and were among my first students.

Today they commit to meet together monthly exploring new pathways for restoring immunity with Gemmotherapy extracts and remaining current on the latest discoveries.
